

GRAZIA

Britain's first weekly glossy.

TUESDAY
16 OCTOBER
 The explosive Party Animals is officially the Grazia features desk's favourite TV show of the year. Sadly, it's not going to be recommissioned, so grab the DVD set, out today (www.amazon.co.uk).

WEDNESDAY
17 OCTOBER
 It's the Opening Night Gala of the London Film Festival tonight, with a screening of Eastern Promises starring Naomi Watts (see our chat with her on p136). Over the next two weeks, the festival will show 184 films – go to www.lff.org.uk for tickets.

THURSDAY
18 OCTOBER
 Fancy a free consultation with Kevin Murphy, the hair guru who's styled the barnets of the likes of Kylie and Cate Blanchett? Well, get you (and your hair) down to John Lewis Oxford Street (10am–1pm) and Peter Jones Sloane Square (3pm–6pm) today.

FRIDAY
19 OCTOBER
 Fact: women buy the most wine in the supermarket, and are more sensitive wine tasters than men. And next Friday (26th), Sunday Times wine critic Joanna Simon will be hosting a 'Wine for Women' session in the Tasting Theatre at London's third annual Wine Show. Tickets from £10-£18; www.wineshow.co.uk.

SATURDAY
20 OCTOBER
 If you love the cool, colourful eclecticism and sexy jet-set outlook of Matthew Williamson as much as we do (see p131), don't miss an exhibition celebrating his 10 years in fashion at London's Design Museum. It's on until the end of January 2008; www.designmuseum.org.

SUNDAY
21 OCTOBER
 Quick sticks! It's the last day of the Affordable Art Fair today and renowned British Pop Art co-founder Gerald Laing will be unveiling his new work The Kiss, inspired by Amy Winehouse. The fair aims to make original contemporary art more accessible, with paintings, sculpture and photography, all priced at under £3,000; www.affordableartfair.co.uk.

MONDAY
22 OCTOBER
 The spa at the Stoke Park

Club in Buckinghamshire is regularly voted one of the world's top 10. But if booking in for a treatment there is a tad out of your price range, check out their new super-luxurious SPA SPC products. Our favourite at-home treats? The heavenly Decadent Rose Cleanser, £32, and zingy Ginger Body Scrub, £35. www.spc.co.uk.

TUESDAY
23 OCTOBER
 Magic 105.4 has been our guilty pleasure for longer than we'd care to admit, and now there's another (shameful) reason to tune in. For the rest of October, the breakfast show is giving away a pair of tickets for the sold out Take That tour, every weekday morning. You know you want it! www.magic.fm
